We'll Start You to Housekeeping

the minute you are ready, and you can pay for the Furniture, Carpets, and Draperies as you earn the money. The little that you can spare—as well as once a week or once a month—will be a great plenty for us. It is much more economical to buy good furniture on credit—in the beginning—than to get inferior grades, which the limitations of your purse might make necessary, were you to pay cash. We can furnish your home, complete, from the kitchen range—if you need one—to the parlor suite, and our prices are as low as good goods can be bought for anywhere.

IN THE SOCIAL WORLD

The Thomas-Walker Wedding Yesterday at All Souls.

Many Distinguished Officers of the Navy Present at the Ceremony. Chief Among Them Admiral Dewey and Admiral Schley—The Ceremony Reception Last Night.

The brides and grooms of last week had cause to bless the ideal weather that added so much to the charm and comfort of their various wedding days. Every morning the sun beamed in royal splendor, and nothing less than living silver would do justice to the moon.

The most fashionable nuptial event, not only of the week, but of the autumn season, was solemnized at All Souls Church yesterday at noon. The bride was Miss Frances Pickering Walker, daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. John G. Walker, and the groom Dr. John Jenks Thomas, of Boston.

The church was filled to the doors with an assemblage representing every phase of Washington society, naval, diplomatic, and resident, together with relatives and friends from Boston, Chicago, and New York. The chancel, organ gallery, and deep niches of the stained glass windows were elaborately decorated with fern fronds and white chrysanthemums, and tall oval crystal vases filled with chrysanthemums and tied with bows of white satin ribbon, marked the pews reserved for the family and intimate friends.

As the organ chords announced the arrival of the wedding party, the groom, attended by Mr. Charles Cheney Hyde, of Chicago, accompanied the officiating clergyman, Rev. E. Bradford Leavitt, to the palm-embowered chancel, where they awaited the arrival of the bride, who was escorted by her father and preceded by the ushers, Lieut. William Rodgers, U. S. N.; Mr. Henry P. Walker, the brother of the bride; Dr. William N. Bullard, of Boston; Mr. Theodore M. Taft, and Mr. Frederick J. Matheson, of New York, and Mr. Arthur Keith, of Washington. The two sisters of the bride, Miss Susan G. and Miss Sarah C. Walker, were her only attendants. Each wore a train of white mousseline de soie, trimmed with tiny ruffles in tulle effect, with shoulder knots of cardinal satin ribbon. Their toques were artistic combinations of turquoise and cerise velvet, with bouquets of egret feathers, and the bouquets were of royal white chrysanthemums.

The wedding gown of pearl-white satin was made with elegant simplicity. The trained skirt fell in unbroken folds and the yoke and sleeves of the bodice were of rich old lace. A tulle veil fell in graceful folds from the dark hair of the bride, and she carried a bouquet of long-stemmed white roses sheathed in their foliage of leaves. The ceremony was followed by a breakfast and reception at the residence of the bride's parents on Corcoran Street, the guests being limited to a small company of relatives and warm personal friends of the bride and groom.

Among the guests at the ceremony were Admiral Dewey, Admiral and Mrs. Schley, the Secretary of the Navy, Admiral and Mrs. Ramsay, Admiral and Mrs. Franklin, General Greely, Mrs. John W. Foster, Major and Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Arthur Smith, Colonel and Mrs. Colton, and Miss Colton, Mr. and Mrs. Grew, the Misses Pickering, Miss Thomas and Justice and Mrs. Gray. Dr. and Mrs. Thomas will reside at the Hotel Belvoir, Beacon Street, Boston.

The social event of last night was the reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Courland C. Clements, at 5 o'clock, in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clarke Lettich. The marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Lettich took place last August. They have been guests for some weeks of the bride's parents, but will leave in a few days for New York, where Mr. Lettich, who is a naval constructor, is now stationed. The bride's residence, 1748 Eighteenth Street, was floridly beautiful with roses and cosmos blooms, together with autumn leaves that were arranged artistically about the mantels and doorways.

The several hundred guests were received by Mr. and Mrs. Clements and Mr. and Mrs. Lettich—the latter, radiant in white satin, the bride veiled with arranged net and the skirt trimmed with accordion-pleated bouffant of chiffon. She carried a garland bouquet of white roses. Mrs. J. E. Watkins, Jr., another young daughter of the house, contributed most graciously to the general pleasure of the guests.

Among the out-of-town visitors were

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lettich and Miss Naylor, of New York.

That this coming Wednesday means to rival its predecessors of the month is evidenced by the number of weddings announced for that date. Among them are: Miss Ada Probasco, daughter of Mrs. B. McLean Probasco, and Mr. Benjamin Tripp, of West Virginia and New York. The marriage will occur at St. John's Church at noon.

Miss Mary Helen Jenks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield S. Jenks, and Mr. Edward Tarring, New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, 6:30 o'clock.

Miss Emma Laura Bishop and Mr. Thomas L. Jones, Waugh M. E. Church, 7:30 P. M.

Miss Martha Cone Mitchell and Mr. Kepler Hoyt, at the New Church, corner of Sixteenth and Corcoran Street, Evening.

Mrs. Charles G. Ayres has reopened her New Hampshire Avenue residence, which has been closed for several months past, during which time she has been enjoying summer and autumn life in the Palisades of New Jersey and on Long Island Sound. Her pretty little daughter is a student at St. Agnes School in Albany and her young son is spending the autumn in the mountains of Virginia. In December Mrs. Ayres hopes to go to Cuba to join Captain Ayres, who has been doing splendid service as the military and civil governor of the province of Holguin.

On next Thursday will occur the marriage of Miss Gertrude Howard and the Hon. Edgar Orin Howard, of Harrisburg. The bride-elect, a charming and accomplished girl, is a great niece of both Mrs. John Randolph Tucker and Mrs. Charles Gibson, of Virginia. Mr. Orin Howard, who was for four years a representative of his State in Congress, is a member of the Republican Cognition and the Chevy Chase Club.

Miss Bessie Baker, the daughter of Mrs. John Baker, will join the Misses Worthington and spend the winter in Rome.

Dr. and Mrs. McKinnin will sail for Europe next Wednesday on the steamship New York.

Senator and Mrs. Lindsay, of Kentucky, will spend the coming season at a hotel as has been their custom, but will take a house for the Congressional session.

Representative Hawley, of Texas, with his wife and daughter, have been spending the summer in foreign travel, have sailed for home.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Fuller and Mr. Victor C. Bailey, who have been spending several months abroad, have returned. Miss Fuller and Miss Fanny Fuller will remain in Europe until Spring.

Mrs. James G. Blaine is making an autumn visit to Weston, Mass. She is accompanied by Mrs. Walter Darnoch and Mrs. Traxton Beale and their children.

At the annual reunion of the Mount De Sales Alumnae Association, to be held at the convent near Baltimore next Thursday, an original ode will be read by Mrs. Minnie McKee Wagoner, the historian of the society. Bishop Keane will deliver the oration of the alumnae, and Monsignor County, rector of the Catholic University, will officiate at the benediction, which will bring the reunion to a close. The program will include an informal reception, followed by a luncheon, after which a musical and literary entertainment will be given. Mrs. A. Leo Knott is the president of the association.

Dr. Carl B. Boyd entertained Friday evening at his home, 608 Third Street northwest, several of the Georgetown University class of '98 and an enjoyable evening was spent. The features of the evening were the singing of the Misses Edna and Daisy Taylor, sketch songs by Mr. Will Boyd, instrumental music by Miss Mabel Boyd, graphophone selections by Dr. Edward Gorman, of Alexandria, and Dr. Boyd transmitted one of his own compositions, entitled "March Dedicated to Georgetown University," which was produced with fine effect, the announcement delivered by Dr. Carlisle De Vries. Recitations by Mrs. Virgie Quantrell, Brown followed. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. Gorman of Alexandria, Dr. Edward Combsky, Dr. Carlisle De Vries, Dr. Carl B. Boyd, Mr. Percy Howcott, Mr. Elliott Brown, Mr. Charles and Misses Edith and Ruth Shank, Mr. Will A. Boyd, Miss Edna and Daisy Taylor, Mrs. W. S. Boyd, Mrs. Virgie Q. Brown, Mr. William G. Fulton, Miss Mabel Boyd, Miss Alta West, and Miss Susie De Velling.

Miss Catherine Cecilia Lauxman and Mr. Charles T. McDonald were married last Monday evening in the pastoral residence of St. Patrick's Church, Rev. Dr. Stafford presiding in the ceremony. In the presence of a number of relatives and friends, the bride wore white organdie over white silk and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Rosa Walker, who wore white organdie and carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. The best man was Mr. V.

Wahler. A wedding reception was held at the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. H. M. Lauxman, 22 Maryland Ave. Donald will be at home to their friends after October 22, at 61 Florida Avenue northwest.

A very enjoyable progressive euchre party was given Wednesday evening at the "Livingston." It was the first of the season, and the guests were entered into with much spirit by the players. There were five tables and ten couples, the names of the players being as follows: Col. and Mrs. Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Huddleston, Mrs. New, Mr. T. D. Wilson, Miss Liddage, Mr. Edward Morrison, Miss Morrison, Mr. Leavy, Miss Kluge, Mr. Janner, Mrs. Peabody, Mrs. Baker, Miss Trenton, Mr. K. White, Miss Blanche White, Miss Bourke, Mr. Charlton Clark, Miss B. V. Sherwood, and Mr. Liddage.

The prizes were pretty, dainty, and appropriate, the first lady's trophy being won by Mrs. Welch, the second by Miss Kluge, and the lady's "euchre" by Mrs. Peabody. The favored winners on the other side were Mr. Howard Morrison, first prize; Mr. T. B. Wilson, second prize, and Mr. K. White, "euchre" prize. At the end of the games the dancing was served, and the play continued until 1 o'clock. The evening closed in the old-fashioned "Virginia reel" danced to bright and lively music.

Miss Camille Boudie, niece of Colonel and Mrs. Trenton, is making a short visit with her relatives in Washington.

Her sister, Miss Celeste Boudie, has returned to her home in Alabama.

The marriage of Miss Marian C. Foster, of Georgetown, to Mr. Ralph C. Powell, of this city, will take place at St. John's Church, Georgetown, Wednesday evening, November 15.

Mrs. Walter Harvey Ward has opened her handsome new home on the Columbia River. Mrs. Ward, who is in Montana on official business, connected with the Geological Survey, will return to Washington next month.

The marriage of Miss Lucy Matthews to Dr. Louis Mackall, Jr., will occur at Christ Church, Georgetown, on Wednesday, November 15. Miss Matthews is the daughter of the late Charles M. Matthews. Dr. Mackall also belongs to an old Georgetown family.

Miss Molly Elliott Seawell and Miss Hendricks Seawell, who have been spending the summer in foreign travel, have sailed for home.

Mrs. Theodora B. Talcott, of Georgetown, and Mr. T. Edward Hamilton, the well-known banker of Baltimore, will be married next Wednesday.

Mrs. Talcott is the widow of a naval officer of the Confederate army whose death occurred a number of years ago. Mr. Hamilton was also South during the civil war.

Mrs. Charles Poe, of Hillier Place, is visiting her sister, Mrs. John M. Robinson, of Baltimore.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Schley are at the Everett.

Commissioner William A. Jones and family are at the Portland for the winter.

The marriage of Miss Annie Harkness Hollidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Hollidge, to Mr. Raymond Mingley Cook, which was announced to take place at the residence of the bride's parents, on Tuesday next, will occur at the residence of the bride's parents, on account of the recent death of Mr. Cook's father. The wedding will be strictly private in character.

Capt. and Mrs. George W. Manning announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Anna Manning, to Mr. J. Edwards, Friday, October 20, 1899.

WICKED PEARL HART.
Exploits of a Female Western Mining Region Pirate.

(From the New York Sun.)
A dispatch from Tucson, Ariz., states that Pearl Hart, the famous woman who, with her sweetheart, Joe Boot, held up the Globe stage coach at San Springs, Canon, Ariz., at the pistol-point on May 20, has been captured at a village on Thursday morning. With the aid of an accomplice, so it is supposed, she cut through a wall ten feet from the floor and had several hours' start before her escape was discovered. Public sentiment in her favor, and it is said that no very determined effort will be made to recapture her. She and Boot both swore that they would never be in a penitentiary, but would rather kill themselves. The man is now in jail at Florence awaiting trial.

When they were separated Pearl Hart made a more or less desperate attempt to kill herself, or to make the bystanders think she was about to kill herself. Which it was a matter of some doubt.

Pearl Hart's life has been that of many women who drift from mining camp to mining camp in the West, changing their associations as they change their habitat. At the age of sixteen she eloped from boarding school with a man named Hart. They had one child. Two years after her marriage she left her husband because of his cruelty, and for nearly three years was separated from him. He begged for another chance and they went to Tucson together.

Hart beat and abused her until she left him again, after which he enlisted in a Western regiment and was in the war. Then he was wounded and lay in a hospital, and she went to him and nursed him. When he was well, she went to him and nursed him. When he was well, she went to him and nursed him.

With Joe Boot, one of the miners, she took a contract to freight some goods to Globe for $3. In Globe she became a waitress in a miner's boarding house, but the miners shut down and she was again out of work. Boot, who seems to have been good to her and for whom she had some affection, suggested that they strike out to a mining claim which he owned, and they try to dig out enough to take them both back to his home in Canada. Women's clothing is not convenient for tramping and mining. Pearl Hart got a boy's outfit, and for three weeks huddled in mud and snow with her partner. Disappointment was the wage of that labor; the claim showed no speck of "color."

Then Boot proposed that they hold up the Globe stage coach. It is a very high-colored and sensational autobiography of the dime-novel school of literature, which Mr. J. Brishen Walker, founder of the type-written Cosmopolitan University, hired the woman to write for his magazine, she declares that she consented to the stage robbery only because she needed the money to get home to her dying mother. The pair armed themselves with revolvers, and how they carried out their mad scheme is told by the "girl bandit" as follows:

"Joe drew a forty-five and said: 'Throw up your hands!' I drew my little thirty-eight and likewise covered the occupants of the stage. Joe said to me: 'Get off your horse.' I did so, while he kept the people covered. He ordered them out of the stage. Joe told me to search the passengers. I found one of the fellows who was drinking the worst $300. He was trembling so I could hardly get my hand in his pockets. The other fellow, a sort of duffer, tried to tell me how much he needed the money, but yielded $25, a dime, and two nickels. Then I searched the remaining passenger, a Chinaman. He was nearer my size, but I just scared him to death. I never saw him again."

After going through the passengers they gave back a dollar to each of them, and rode away. Two days later they were captured and taken to Florence, where Boot was left in jail, while the woman was taken to Tucson. She remained there up to the time of her escape.

Pearl Hart is about twenty-five years old. She is small and slight, weighing less than 100 pounds. Pictures of her in her male attire make her look like a sullen, homely boy of sixteen. Until, by the efforts of J. Brishen Walker, she came to regard herself as a heroine, she was quiet and morose in her behavior. Since then she has found herself an object of much curiosity, and has posed as a martyr. Of late she has been announcing that she would never submit to be tried by the laws which, as a woman, she had no hand in making. It now looks as if she would make good this assertion.

A GIRL CHAINED TO A WALL.
Her Mother Keeps Her in Restraint While She Seeks Work.
(From the Philadelphia Inquirer.)
At 51 Jessie Street, San Francisco, a little girl of eight years kept her chain all day, tears wildly at the walls, and floors of her dark corner, and ate any bit of refuse that comes her way. The child, who makes a strange and like a squirrel, does not talk intelligibly, is Lillie Tontino, born in Texas, and for the first four years of her life was like other children. Then she began to make strange, gibbering noises and to develop a great turn for destructiveness. She would overturn the chairs in a wanton spirit of mischief, tear the paper from the walls, and rip up her dresses. It now looks as if she would make good this assertion.

A week ago Mrs. Emily Tontino, the mother of the child, went to San Francisco with her five children. Mrs. Tontino had a fearful journey. She was on the train that was held up and robbed in Arizona. Her feeble-minded boy, Joe, aged fifteen, escaped from his mother and got off the train, and Mrs. Tontino was obliged to wait a day for him at Tucson. Then Lillie threw the family valise out of the window, scattering clothes and what money the distressed mother had. The train was stopped ten minutes and the poor woman went back and gathered together each of her belongings as she could find. At last the little family arrived and rented a grimy basement of three rooms at 51 Jessie Street. The boy Joe got out of the house one day and wandered away and was taken to the city hall. He could not tell his name nor where he lived, and his mother was threatened with arrest for cruelty to children.

The officers of the Children's Society investigated the cases of the two children and saw the girl in her last fate, fastened by a dog chain to the wall. They will make an effort to send both children to the Home for Feeble-minded at Glen Ellen.

Mrs. Tontino is an English woman, who hails from the north of England. She married an Italian who lived in Texas, and who, she says, was crazed on the subject of religion. He was of the opinion that

THE PURCHASE OF A PIANO.

This is not such a serious question as it may at first appear. If you place yourself in the hands of an absolutely responsible house—responsible from every standpoint—there is little or no anxiety or risk in buying a piano.

It's more than worth your while to purchase such a piano as the Knabe, or to transact your business with such a house as Wm. Knabe & Co. The Knabe Piano, as you may know, is unquestionably the best investment for any piano purchaser. The Knabe is a GOOD piano, viewed from any standpoint.

The house of Knabe has enjoyed uninterrupted business success for over sixty years. It is today more prosperous than ever before. Is it not wise to do business with such a house—where the future good behavior of your piano is guaranteed for practically all time?

Wm. Knabe & Co. sell pianos of other makes for buyers who cannot now afford the purchase of a Knabe. Wm. Knabe & Co.'s terms of payment are not the least attractive features of a great business.

You will find that Wm. Knabe & Co. can sell you a Knabe or some other piano that will surely fill your requirements.

Pianos for rent.
